

Personal Use Fuel Wood Area Takhini Bridge Burn

Where and When You Can Harvest Wood

- Do not cut wood on First Nation Settlement Land*
- Use the marked access point and follow all signs and flagging.
- The personal use fuel wood area is marked with orange tape labeled “PUFW Boundary”.
- Stay inside the marked boundary and do not cut trees outside the flagged area. If you use a phone or GPS, check to make sure you are inside the PUFW boundary.
- Do not cut trees that are marked with flagging tape.
- Cutting wood is only allowed during frozen or dry ground conditions.
- Only drive vehicles on marked road and access points and the road must be frozen or dry. Do not drive off existing roads.

*CAFN and KDFN citizens may harvest personal fuel wood within their respective Settlement Lands

What You Can Harvest

- Dead or downed wood only.
- Do not damage live trees.
- Avoid waterways and wildlife features.

Permit Required for Harvesting

- You must have a valid Personal Use Fuel Wood permit to cut or move wood.
- Cutting without a permit may lead to fines or seized wood.

Harvesting Best Practices

Cut and Spread Branches

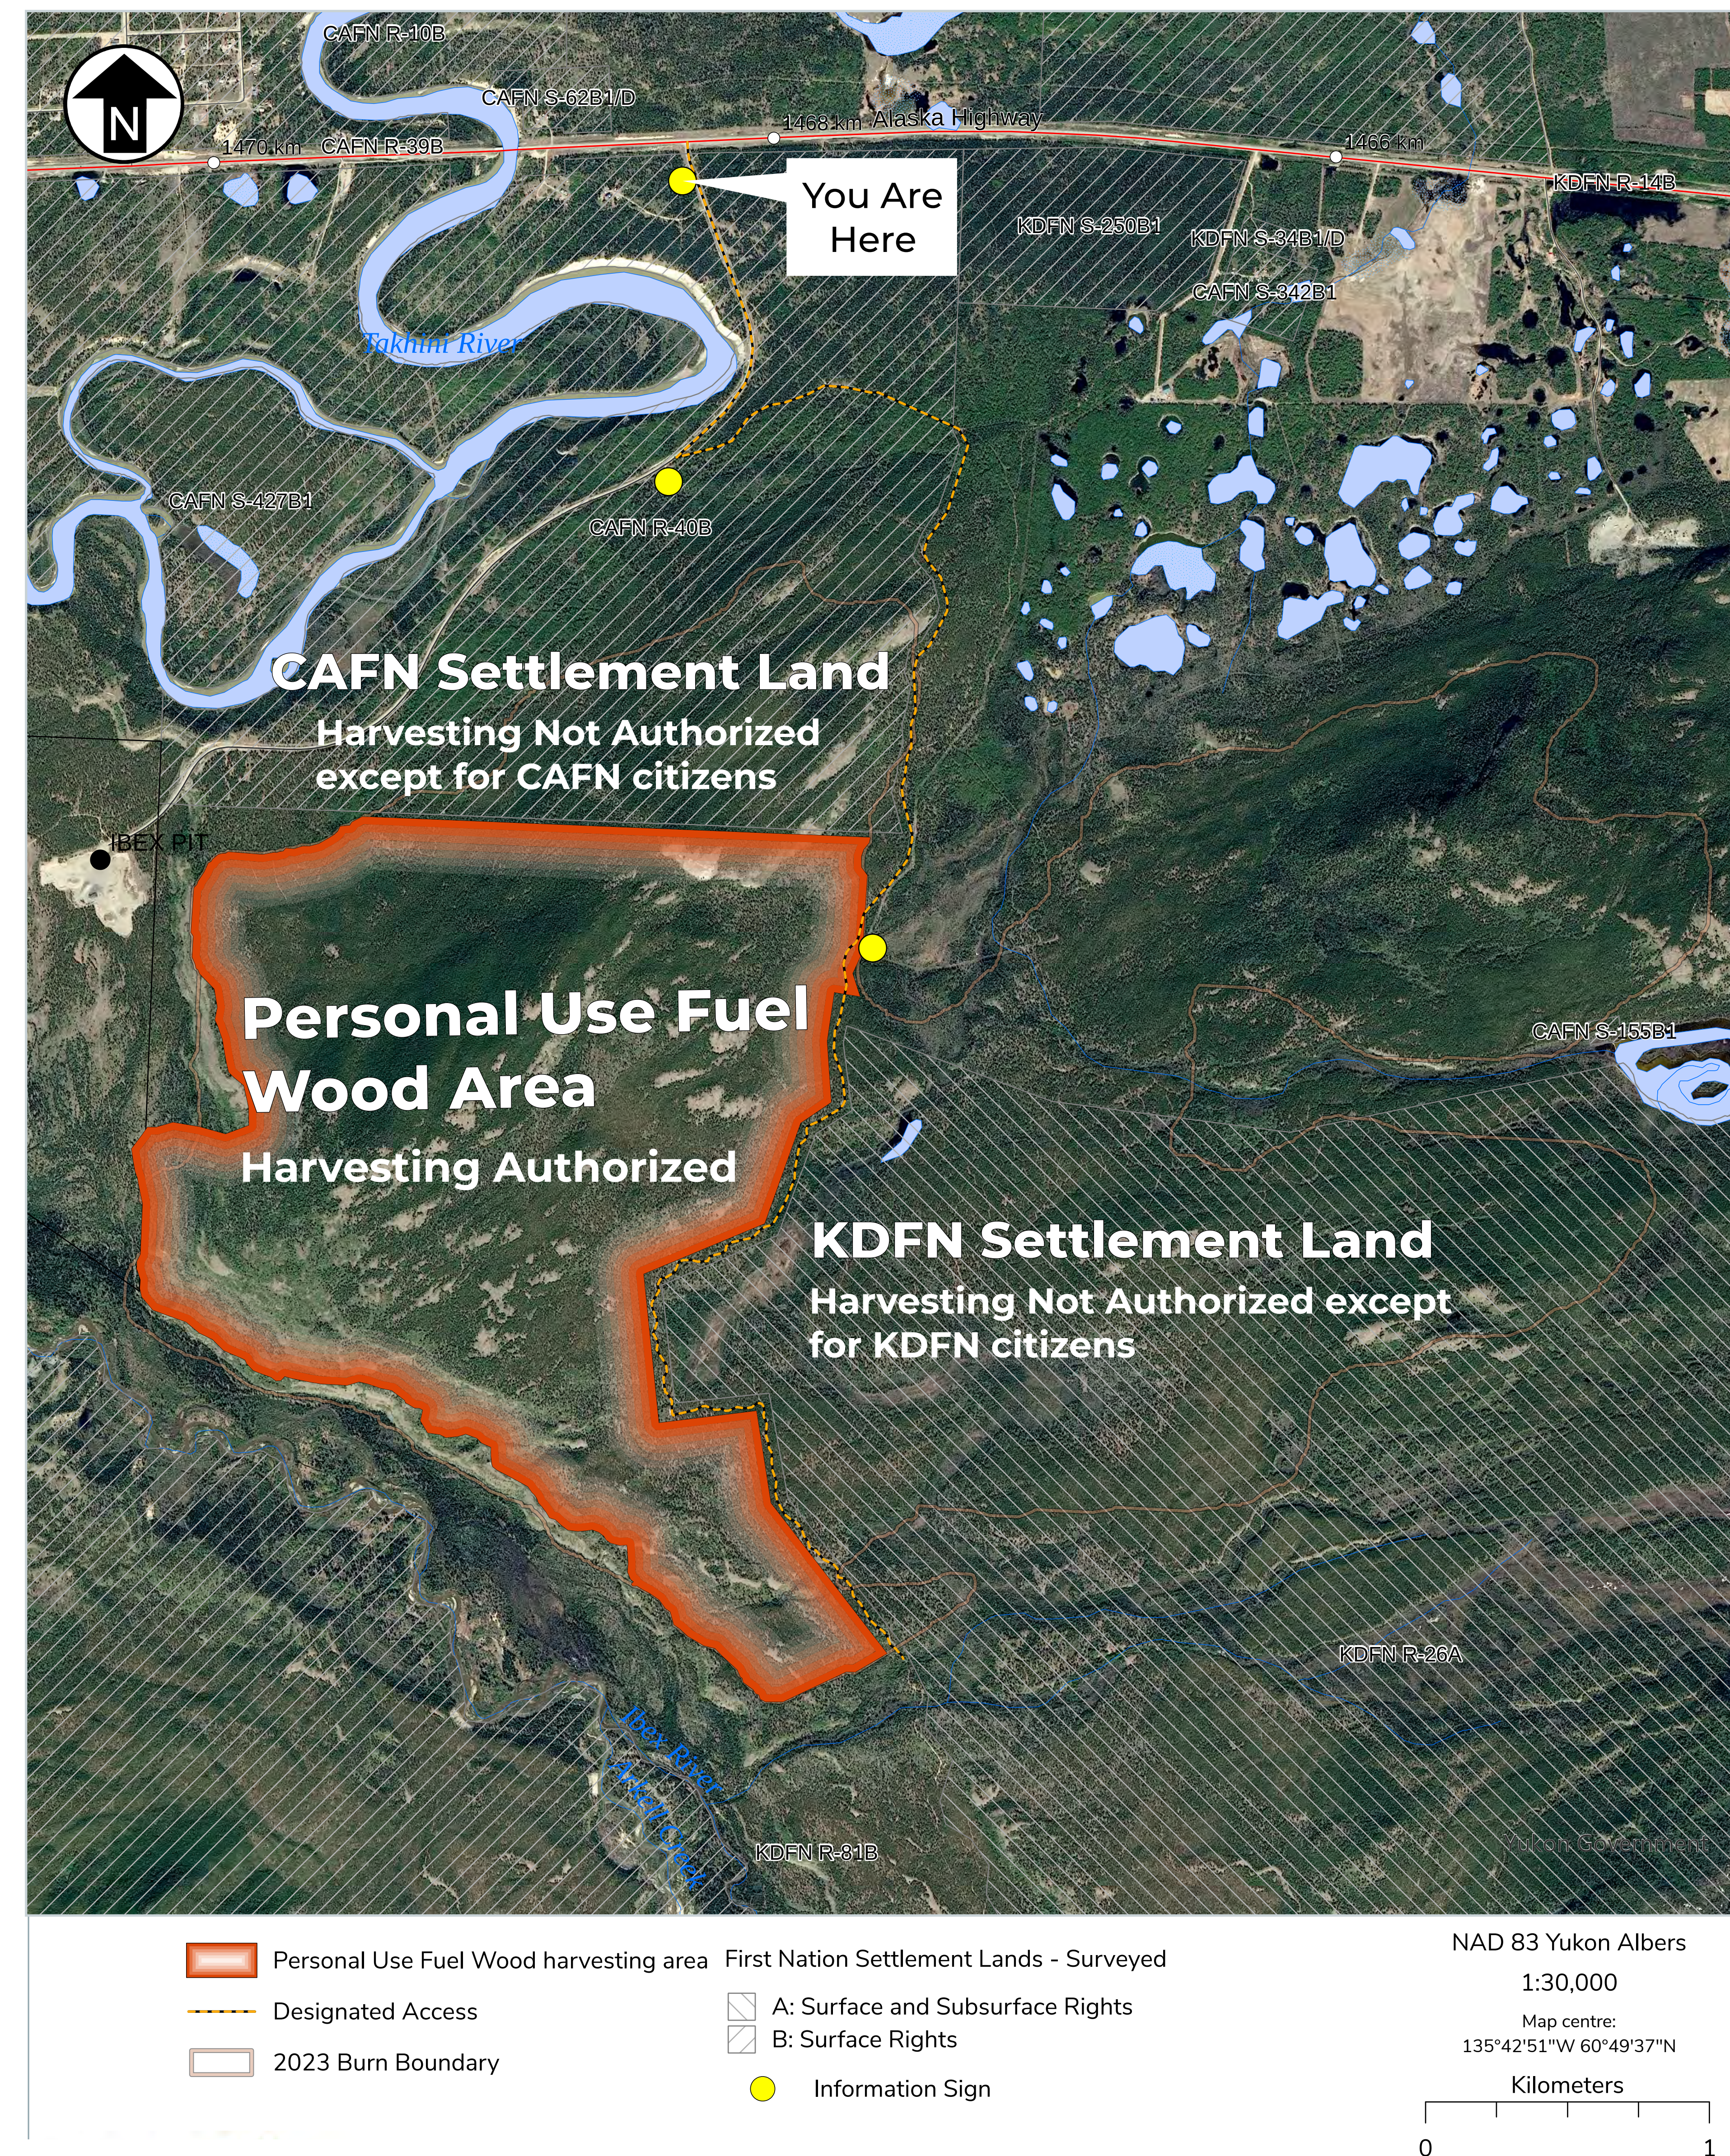

- Cut branches into small pieces.
- Spread them flat on the ground.
- Keep debris below knee height (40 cm).
- Do not leave piles of branches — piles increase wildfire risk.
- Spreading branches lowers fire risk and helps keep the forest healthy.

Stumps

- Cut stumps no higher than 30 cm.
- Lower stumps reduce waste, improves safety, and help the forest grow back.

Soils

- Avoid disturbing the soil as much as possible.
- Protect the natural ground cover.
- Healthy soil holds moisture, supports nutrients, and prevents erosion.
