

AGRICULTURAL LAND APPLICATION

Important:

- Applications are not transferable.
- The Department of Energy, Mines and Resources, Agriculture Branch (EMR) has the mandate to dispose of Crown Lands (under the Lands Act Section 3.1 and the Territorial Lands (Yukon) Act Section 6).
- Acceptance of an application by the Agriculture Branch does not imply future tenure or guarantee that a land disposition interest will be granted. Applicants must show a detailed rationale for the disposition. Refer to Infosheet Agricultural Land Applications for more information. Agriculture legislation and policy are available on the Government of Yukon website at: Yukon.ca/apply-agriculture-land.

Stages for agricultural land application:

- 1) The Agriculture Branch does a preliminary screen of the application to determine the potential availability of the site. If the land is unencumbered by other uses the application is formally accepted and reviewed. You will be advised within 10 days of submitting this application if there are immediate obvious reasons why it cannot be accepted or if it will proceed to the next stage.
- 2) After the application is formally accepted, the applicant has 60 days to complete a detailed Farm Development Plan (FDP). The FDP is part of the application and applications can only proceed through the review process with an approved FDP. The FDP must specify approved agriculture developments equal to the appraised value of the value of the parcel. The Agriculture Branch has a schedule of approximate agriculture development costs to help you finalize your project. Your FDP will, if the application is approved and the parcel disposed, become part of the agreement for sale issued to you. Find the FDP at the Government of Yukon website at: Yukon.ca/farm-development-plan
- 3) The Agriculture Branch will make a site investigation to determine the soil capability and land suitability for agriculture of your application area.
- 4) Almost all agricultural land applications are subject to review under the Yukon Environmental and Socio-economic Assessment Act (YESAA). Once you have a registered application, a heritage assessment, an approved FDP, and a soil capability report recommending that site conditions meet minimum arability, you complete a "Form 1" and submit the material to the appropriate designated office.
- 5) YESAA solicits information from government, First Nations, community agencies, and the general public. The designated office makes a recommendation to the Government of Yukon that a project should be allowed to proceed with appropriate mitigations or that it should not proceed. The Government of Yukon will accept, reject or vary the designated office recommendation.
- 6) After the Government of Yukon approves an agriculture land application, the Agriculture Branch authorizes you to apply to the subdivision approving authority for approval to legally survey the parcel.
- 7) Once the survey plan is registered at the Land Titles Office and the completion of a farm development agreement, the Agriculture Branch will be ready to grant an agreement for sale to the successful applicant.

Note: Ensure that the information you provide on this form is accurate and complete. Incomplete information may delay the processing of your application.

Provide the following information:

1) A location map using a 1:30,000 or 1:50,000 map, or photocopy, indicating the location of the area applied for and the following:

- map reference (e.g. 105D/11) and north arrow (if using photocopy);
- map scale (if using photocopy);
- approximate boundaries of area applied for;
- kilometre of road, if applicable;
- show access and designate as existing or proposed new access to area applied for;
- nearby water bodies or water courses;
- uses of adjacent land.

The map should reference a point of commencement (distance and direction of the application from a known feature).

Examples of a point of commencement include:

- existing survey posts of other property in the area;
- highway and utility line survey monuments;
- the shoreline of water bodies; or,
- a highway kilometre post.

GPS co-ordinates for the parcel's corners are adequate for most location purposes.

2) Area boundaries

It is recommended that you contact the Agriculture Branch to discuss your application, area of interest and possible joint site visit to GPS the coordinates for sketch purposes prior to submitting your application to the Agriculture Branch.

Example:
