One the most versatile medicinal plants in the Yukon. Can be white, pink, or shades of purple.

Twinflower

Evergreen leaves with tiny pink flowers.

Siberian Aster

Common food for moose and deer.

Fireweed

Official flower of the Yukon. When the flowers at the top bloom, summer is over.

Prickly Saxifrage

Tiny, delicate flowers. Vicious, prickly leaves. Ow.

Sparrow's-egg Lady-slipper

A solitary orchid. All white.

Arnica

A bright splash of yellow on the green forest floor. Grows alone.

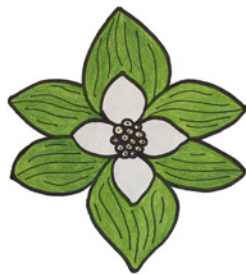

Bear-root

Grows along the side of the road in early summer. Almost a glowing magenta colour.

Prairie Crocus

The first flower of spring.

Dwarf Dogwood/Bunchberry

Grows close to the ground. Produces clumps of bright red berries.

Calypso

A showy orchid that usually grows in clusters.

Arctic Lupine

One of three species of lupine in the Yukon.

Labrador Tea

A small evergreen shrub. Flowers in this drawing are disproportionally large.

Northern Monkshood

Nice to look at, but not to eat. All parts are poisonous.

Tall Lungwort / Bluebells

Flowers range from pink to purple to blue.

Showy Jacob's Ladder

Can be shades of lavender-blue and purple. Grows on dry, south-facing slopes.
