

Robert Service Cabin

National Historic Site

Dawson City, Yukon

This cabin once housed the famous Yukon poet Robert Service, author of “The Cremation of Sam McGee.” The Robert Service Cabin is a federal historic site. It is open to visitors who wish to learn about the life of a Klondike Gold Rush Era resident. To learn more about the Robert Service Cabin, please visit: https://www.pc.gc.ca/apps/dfhd/page_fhbros_eng.aspx?id=3198

On the back, you will find an illustration of the Robert Service Cabin by artist Cass Collins. Don't say 'Good-bye, Little Cabin' as Robert Service once did, but say hello and add in some colour.

Artist and graphic designer Cass Collins left the town where she was born and raised, Whitehorse, Yukon, to study illustration and design at Capilano University in North Vancouver, BC. After receiving her diploma, she returned north and settled in Atlin, BC.

See more of Cass's work by visiting her social media accounts or her Etsy shop at www.etsy.com/ca/shop/casscollins.
