About the Labour Force Survey

The Labour Force Survey (LFS) is a source of estimates of total employment (including self-employment) and unemployment. It is a monthly household survey conducted by Statistics Canada. The survey covers individuals who are representative of the civilian, non-institutionalized population 15 years of age or older.

The LFS provides employment estimates by industry, occupation, hours worked, etc., all cross-classifiable by a variety of demographic details. The survey also produces wage, union status, job permanency and workplace size for employees.

In this publication, industry estimates are based on North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) 2017, Version 3.0; and occupation estimates are based on National Occupational Classification (NOC) 2021, Version 1.0.

For additional information about the LFS, please see Guide to the Labour Force Survey: <https://www150.statcan.gc.ca/n1/en/catalogue/71-543-G>

Revisions to the Labour Force Survey

Fluctuations in time series are caused by seasonal, cyclical, and irregular movements. A seasonally adjusted series is one from which seasonal movements have been eliminated. Seasonal movements are defined as those which are caused by regular annual events such as climate, holidays, vacation periods and cycles related to crops, production and retail sales associated with Christmas and Easter.

The seasonally adjusted LFS estimates are revised yearly, going back three years and are published around the end of January. Every five years, all the LFS estimates are revised historically over a longer time span. At that time, population base is updated according to the population estimates based on the latest census, the latest classifications for industry, occupation and geography. The seasonal factors are updated at the same time. This exercise is called rebasing. In 2023, LFS estimates were updated using the population estimates based on the 2021 Census.

In general, there is a small impact on trends as a result of these revisions. However, due to Yukon's small population base, a minor change in any number may significantly affect the relevant rates.
